From the Desk of Fr. Francis

Greetings of Christ's Peace and Joy! Hope you all had a blessed week.

Thanks

Thanks to our Religious Education Program students for leading us in prayer at last Sunday's 10:30am mass. They did a fantastic job with greeting people, lecturing, and singing, as well as other liturgical roles. We are so proud of them and grateful to them and their catechists and parents for their help.

Thanks to all who attended Fr. Michael's talk on the Church in China and thanks to all for your generous support for the mission of the US China Catholic Association. They are so grateful for your warm St. Therese hospitality.

Lenten Journey Continues...

As I am writing this article, I am attending a retreat this week. We are only two weeks away from the celebration of the Paschal mystery. I am so grateful that I was able to take this opportunity to pray and meditate and rest. As we quickly approach Easter, I invite you to consider the following possibilities for your spiritual growth and readiness if you haven't done so this Lenten season.

Set Aside Time: consider to spend at least 10 minutes a day to pray and to be consciously with God and plan to join one of our retreats if your schedule allows.

Create Space: find a space in your home where you can relax and pray and consider going to Church or nature for such a space to reflect.

Practice Simplicity: intentionally let go of the things that burden you and fast on this coming Good Friday, which is really an invitation to authentic freedom.

The story is told about Abba Paul on simplicity as follows:

It was said of Abba Paul that he spent the whole of Lent eating only one measure of lentils, drinking one small jug of water, and working on one single basket, weaving and unweaving it, living alone until the feast. ----Paul the Simple, The Sayings of the Desert Fathers

May you bear good fruits during the rest of this Lenten season, and be ready to re-live the mystery of Jesus' death and resurrection at the Triduum.

Peace ~ Fr. Francis

RESPECT LIFE CORNER

Unplanned: The Surprise Success of a Pro-Life Movie

The new movie Unplanned opened last Friday, and it tells the story of Abby Johnson, a former Planned Parenthood clinic director who became a pro-life advocate after witnessing an abortion procedure. Abby's story is compelling, but the movie faced several obstacles leading up to opening day. Several media outlets such as HGTV and the Hallmark Channel refused to air advertisements for the movie, which could have impacted its opening weekend crowd. Instead, the movie surpassed expectations, coming in 4th place over the weekend, behind big-budget films Dumbo and Captain Marvel. The film cost $6 million to make (as opposed to $170 million for Dumbo) but brought in more than $6 million in its opening weekend alone.

"We're very, very happy," co-writer and director Chuck Konzelman told Drew Mariani this week on The Drew Mariani ShowTM. "I mean, the final number is close to $6.4 million we found out. And they really didn't expect that we would even show up. So we doubled their expectation."

Asked why the movie experienced such resistance leading up to opening day, despite large turn-outs in theaters, Konzelman's co-writer and co-director Cary Solomon said, "I think this movie represents an existential threat to Planned Parenthood. We're already seeing this, its effects out in the real world. ... What so blows my mind more than anything else is that we have had hundreds, thousands of pro-choice people say 'I'm now pro-life.' That's unbelievable."

Abby Johnson also stopped by The Drew Mariani Show this week, and shared what it is like to have her life's story made into a movie.

"It's very surreal. I mean, it's seeing your life up on the screen," she said. "And there's definitely a vulnerability there. But I didn't agree to do this to make Abby Johnson a household name. I agreed to do this because I really want God's grace, and His forgiveness, and His radical mercy that is available to everyone – I want that to be what's known in every single household across this world. And this is how you do it. You do it by converting hearts. You change the culture. Not just by laws, but by conversion of hearts. And that's what this film is doing. Thanks be to God, it's just amazing to watch."

And just as Abby's work with her non-profit And Then There Were None seeks to help abortion workers like her leave the industry, Unplanned is a movie that aims to not just preach to the choir, but to change hearts, minds, and lives.

"This film is for everybody. And God's healing and forgiveness is for everybody," Abby said. "One of our current clients who worked in the industry actually ended up reaching back to some of her friends that she used to work with and said, 'I'm going to go watch this movie. I'll buy your ticket if you want to go with me.' So she ended up bringing three of her former co-workers who still currently work at Planned Parenthood to the film with her. We know that Planned Parenthood employees are watching the film, we know that other abortion industry employees are watching, and we're just ready with open arms to receive them."

"MERCY" by Sister Caritas

In today's world, we see many situations in which people are judged and condemned sometimes without the correct information. Even in our everyday personal lives, it is easy to judge and condemn those around us, family members and others. Often we do not know the details or the real facts about the situation. Often we are eager to point the finger of judgement and condemnation.

In today's Gospel, we have a story of condemnation and mercy. Jesus is in the temple "early in the morning." He is ready to teach the people. The scribes and Pharisees bring a woman to Jesus. They tell Jesus she has been caught involved in adultery. They quote the Law of Moses to Him and then ask Jesus to judge and condemn the woman. The scribes and Pharisees are trying to trap Jesus. Jesus knows this. In His public ministry and teaching, Jesus has been a person of mercy and forgiveness toward sinners. Those who brought the woman to Jesus continue to push the issue. What do you say Jesus? Jesus stands up from His previous position of writing on the ground. He gives one of the wisest responses in scripture. "Let the one among you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her." He then goes back to writing on the ground. The scripture account says, "In response they began to go away one by one starting with the oldest." The elders among them seemed to have some sense of truth and wisdom about themselves. All the accusers are gone and there is only the woman and Jesus. Jesus remarks about that. Jesus shows her Mercy not condemnation. He does not deny that she sinned. He is compassionate and merciful. "Go and do not sin again," Jesus says.

We are in situations sometimes where we can condemn or show compassion. We do not ignore the wrong actions but we respond like Jesus with loving care. Which way of responding will bring healing and change to the other person? I doubt that condemnation is the road to go.
